

Planting Diary 5

By Jack

After work

When I back to home today, my mint is too tall now. It's time to harvest some.

Photo by Jack

Be a Good Gardener

Harvest the mint with scissor and remember to keep at least 2 knots in the plants and then insert it back to sponges for future growing.

Photo by Jack

Firstly, place the seeding black tray on top of the grow tank, then connect the water tube from the first layer to the black tray and make sure your hole at the side of the tray is open that allows the water go back to water tank and avoid leaking.

Photo by Jack

Photo by Jack

Get a tea or a drink!

Used the mint we harvest for a fresh tea. Making a cup of refresher tea is by mixing a slice of lemon, hot water and some mint. Serve it with a cheesecake makes a wonderful tea.

Photo by Jack

Also use the additional mint to make a special majito cocktail which mixed from vodka, lemon juice and honey. It's time to treat your family!

Photo by Jack